

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A system and method for describing hardware configuration settings of a computing device. A central repository of data structures is built. The data structures are provided to the central repository by hardware entities of the computing device. Hardware configuration settings of the hardware entities are displayed using a browser. The hardware configuration settings are based at least in part on the data structures provided to the central repository by the hardware entities.